New York City: Hotel 50 Bowery

New York City is filled to the brim with museums that are well worth the visit, but, while there, why not stay in a museum-quality hotel, too? Hotel 50 Bowery is just that and more. Inside, guests will find works installed by the Museum of Chinese in America (MOCA) on the second floor in The Gallery. The 1,500-square-foot exhibit, titled the Heart of Chinatown, pays homage to the neighborhood with artifacts found during the hotel's construction. Fun fact: the hotel was built over an old gambling den and a movie theater that inhabited the space from the 1700s through the early 20th century, so it's worth visiting the second floor to learn more.

Rooms from $270.
