

NEWS

Travel

The New York Times

January 14, 2018

From Bourbon Street to the South Pacific pull of Fiji, destinations abound for the tourist with a strong case of wanderlust.

15

Baltimore

A city honors an abolitionist and lights up with art.

Charm City's packed cultural calendar is showcasing commemorative events for the 200th birthday of the Maryland-born abolitionist leader Frederick Douglass from museum exhibits to biography signings. Meanwhile, an expanded Light City festival in April will feature light-based art installations and performances in 14 neighborhoods. And art and history buffs can soon crash at Hotel Revival, on the site of the city's first public art museum.

NORA WALSH