

LIQUOR RUN

HOTELS THAT STOCK MINIBARS FOR COCKTAIL ENTHUSIASTS

BY NOAH KAUFMAN | TODAY

We could easily write an angry treatise about why hotel minibars are terrible, but the issues are all related to two words: cost and quality. Spending $28 for a half bottle of so-so Chardonnay or shelling out 10 bucks for a sample size of Jack Daniel's are not the best ways to recover from the stress of travel. So we hunted down hotels that do in-room drinking right by providing guests with exceptional bottled cocktails, mixology sets and even in-room lessons. If you are serious about drinking while on the road, here are six places to check out.

SLIDE 1 OF 6

Courtesy of Gild Hall, a Thompson Hotel

Gild Hall, New York City

The boutique Wall Street-area hotel provides guests with a designer bar set that includes a mixing glass, strainer, muddler, mason shaker and coupe glasses, as well as high-quality mixers like Boylan Heritage Tonic. Those checking out can snag the $24 Carry-On Cocktail Kit for everything you need to make two old-fashioned at 30,000 feet.