

Rachael Ray

every day

TAKE A BITE OUTTA LIFE!®

You got this!

JUICY MEAT WITHOUT BRINING

◀ OPEN
HERE!

ALL YOUR THANKSGIVING ISSUES SOLVED

NO-DRIppINGS GRAVY

SLOW-COOKER
STUFFING

A FASTER WAY
TO DEFROST
THE BIRD

EASIEST-EVER
PIECRUSTS

CARVING
101

Pomegranate-Glazed
Roast Turkey

STAY IN STYLE

Thompson Nashville

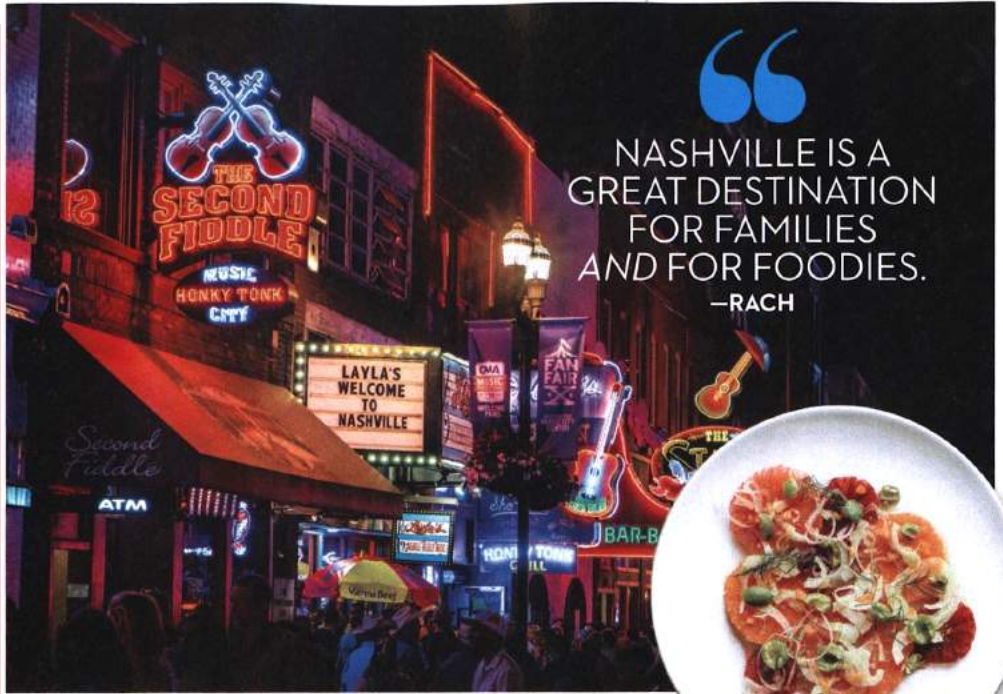

Located in the Gulch, between Music Row and downtown, this luxe boutique hotel is as comfy as it is stylish. Grab a cocktail at L.A. Jackson, the hotel's rooftop bar and restaurant before you tuck in. thompsonhotels.com

TAKE A STROLL

Warner Parks

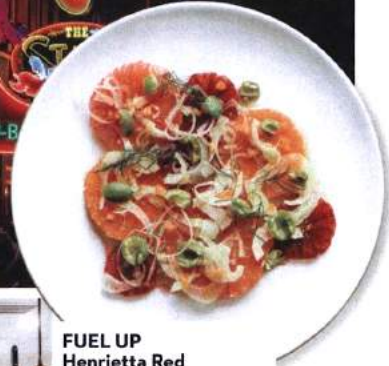

When we need a break from all the honky-tonk and hot chicken, we head to Warner Parks.

The 12 miles of primitive trails feel refreshingly far away from the city. nashville.gov

NASHVILLE IS A GREAT DESTINATION FOR FAMILIES AND FOR FOODIES.

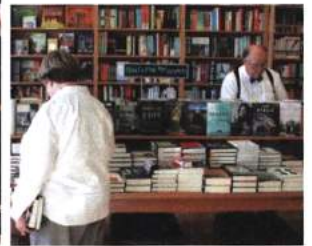

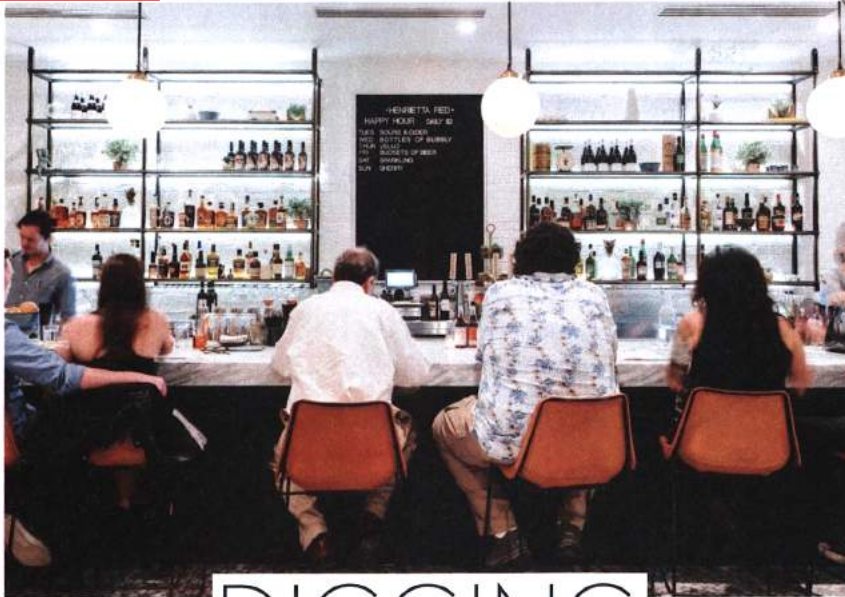

—RACH

FUEL UP

Henrietta Red

Just because Tennessee is landlocked doesn't mean you can't find terrific oysters here. Hometown-hero chef Julia Sullivan serves the briny bivalves raw, fried, or wood-roasted—along with dishes like a bright citrus salad (above)—at her beachy Germantown spot (left). henriettared.com

CATCH A SHOW
The 5 Spot

With eclectic bills like Motown Mondays and Sunday Night Soul, this cozy but lively joint gives you a true Nashville experience with regional beer, better-than-usual bar food, and fresh local talent. the5spot.club

DIGGING Nashville

Locals James Rotondi and Louisa Shafia represent the best things about the city: cool music and fantastic food. James is bandmate to Rachael's husband, John, in the Cringe, and Louisa is a chef and a cookbook author. The couple share their favorite sights and sounds—and suppers—with us.

READ LEGIT SOUTHERN LIT
Parnassus Books

The South has always been about great storytelling. Tap into that literary excellence at this warm and friendly independent bookshop co-owned by acclaimed novelist (and Nashville resident) Ann Patchett. Don't miss the section of local authors. parnassusbooks.net

GO ALL THE WAY SOUTH
Plaza Mariachi

The sparkling, new Latin food hall and shopping center includes vendors serving Mexican ceviche and Argentinean grilled meat, as well as craft boutiques and live entertainment. plazamariachi.com

